Blueprint for Success

We are now in the rough-draft stage of our "Blueprint for Success." We shall endeavor to treat each of these eight qualities with the importance due them; for an awareness of them is fundamental for the success of every individual.

A Teacher, Advisor, and Friend

To be a perfect teacher is something which no person can achieve so long as he has human feelings. But when a teacher possesses qualities of leadership, a true desire to instill learning, and above all, a sense of compassion, here is a teacher who is to be admired and respected. Such a man is Mr. James Joseph Patrick Richard O'Connor.

Although Mr. O'Connor has been with us for only four years, he has given every student who ever sat in his class as awareness of the beauty of the English language and the priceless gifts of an Irish sense of humor.

So it is, that we, the class of 1964, dedicate this book to Mr. James O'Connor, a teacher and a friend.

MR. O'CONNOR ASSUMES SEVERAL NATURAL POSES WHICH HIS STUDENTS SEE DURING HIS CLASSES.

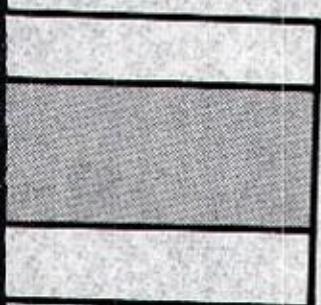

LEADERSHIP

We have sensed the presence of leadership ever since we can remember, in the form of presidents and other public officials. Perhaps the most important leaders to us are our administrators—in their hands lie decisions that affect our lives perhaps more directly than any other officials. As we strive to attain responsibility so that we may one day be leaders also, they guide us and help us so that our course may be straight. They supply the essentials, with which we work to draft our "BLUEPRINT FOR SUCCESS." They aid us in attaining ideas so that we finish with that which we endeavored to attain. We at Mt. Penn High School, are grateful for the capable leadership we have had during our school life. We dedicate this portion of our book to the administrators in the hope that we may one day attain leadership also.

Board of Education Runs School System

The Board of Education is comprised of public-minded citizens from the Mount Penn-Lower Alsace Area. Much of their time is spent at committee meetings where they discuss matters such as teacher employment, maintenance of school facilities, and student curriculum. Without the able guidance of the Board, the Mt. Penn-Lower Alsace schools could not be the progressive institutions of learning they are.

Two Top Administrators Run

DR. CARL F. CONSTEIN, SUPERVISING PRINCIPAL

Dr. Carl F. Constein, our supervising principal, coordinates the activities of the school from his office in the Administration Building at Pennside. Dr. Constein advises the Board of Education and heads the English Department. The community and school district are equally fortunate to have such a man associated with them.

A very capable and devoted administrator is Mr. Emerson N. Rothenberger, high school principal. His genuine concern for each and every student makes him well-liked by all. His understanding nature and sincere advice make even the most formidable situations a little less worrisome.

Interested in creating a friendly atmosphere in the school, Mr. Rothenberger always responds to everyone with a warm greeting. His helpfulness and cooperation have won him the respect and admiration of students and faculty alike. We wish Mr. Rothenberger all the happiness and success in the future at Mount Penn.

Day — in the Office or in Class

Instrumental in the operation of our school is Mr. William I. Purnell, Assistant Principal. Also serving as Senior Class Advisor, Mr. Purnell guides the seniors through their busy final year. In his capacity as Director of Athletics, he is required to schedule athletic contests and secure referees. Mr. Purnell may also be seen regulating traffic to and from the cafeteria. Mount Penn is certainly fortunate to have such an efficient worker on its staff.

Mr. David S. Zimmerman might be called another class advisor except that he serves as guidance counselor for the entire student body. A good sense of humor and sincere helpfulness characterize this affable man.

The efficient running of the high school office depends upon its secretaries, Mrs. Janice Lincoln and Mrs. Sandra Paris. Filling out late slips and procuring keys for students are only two of their multitudinous duties. We all call upon the services of the office staff at one time or another, and certainly owe them a debt of gratitude.

THEIR WARM SMILES GREET US EVERY LUNCH HOUR. From l. to r. are, Mrs. Irma Seifarth, cashier; Mrs. Deborah Hill, head cook; Mrs. Gertrude Michanis, second cook; Mrs. Phyllis U. Reese, Mrs. Anna Mae Wilson, third cook; Mrs. Mary Merritt, Mrs. Angela Azzolina, part-time workers.

The "MAD RUSH" begins at 11:05. Through the halls and down the steps, Mount Penn's energetic students scurry to lunch. Awaiting them, they find steaming, delicious meals, ranging from all-American hot dogs to scrumptious turkey dinners.

Through the efforts of our excellent cafeteria staff we are provided with not only tasty, but also nutritious lunches. These busy women perform many and varied tasks, such as preparing meals, collecting money, and washing dishes. The many services of the cafeteria staff are greatly appreciated by all who take advantage of them.

"NO! YOU CAN'T CHARGE IT!" exclaims Mr. Hamilton as William Wescott asks about his "Diner's Club Card."

for the Well-Being of Students

The job of keeping Mt. Penn's students in a state of good health, rests upon Dr. Robert Deach, physician, and Dr. Rodney Reeder, dentist. The daily work load, however, falls on Mrs. Ethel Hill, our school nurse. For the many trivial and serious accidents which they have handled, the students are deeply grateful.

Mount Penn has reason to be proud of its devoted team of custodians. Their demanding job requires that they be constantly on the alert for burnt-out light bulbs and spilled trays. Their responsibilities include the whole area of the school—from driving the bus to mowing the lawn. Thanks for a job well done.

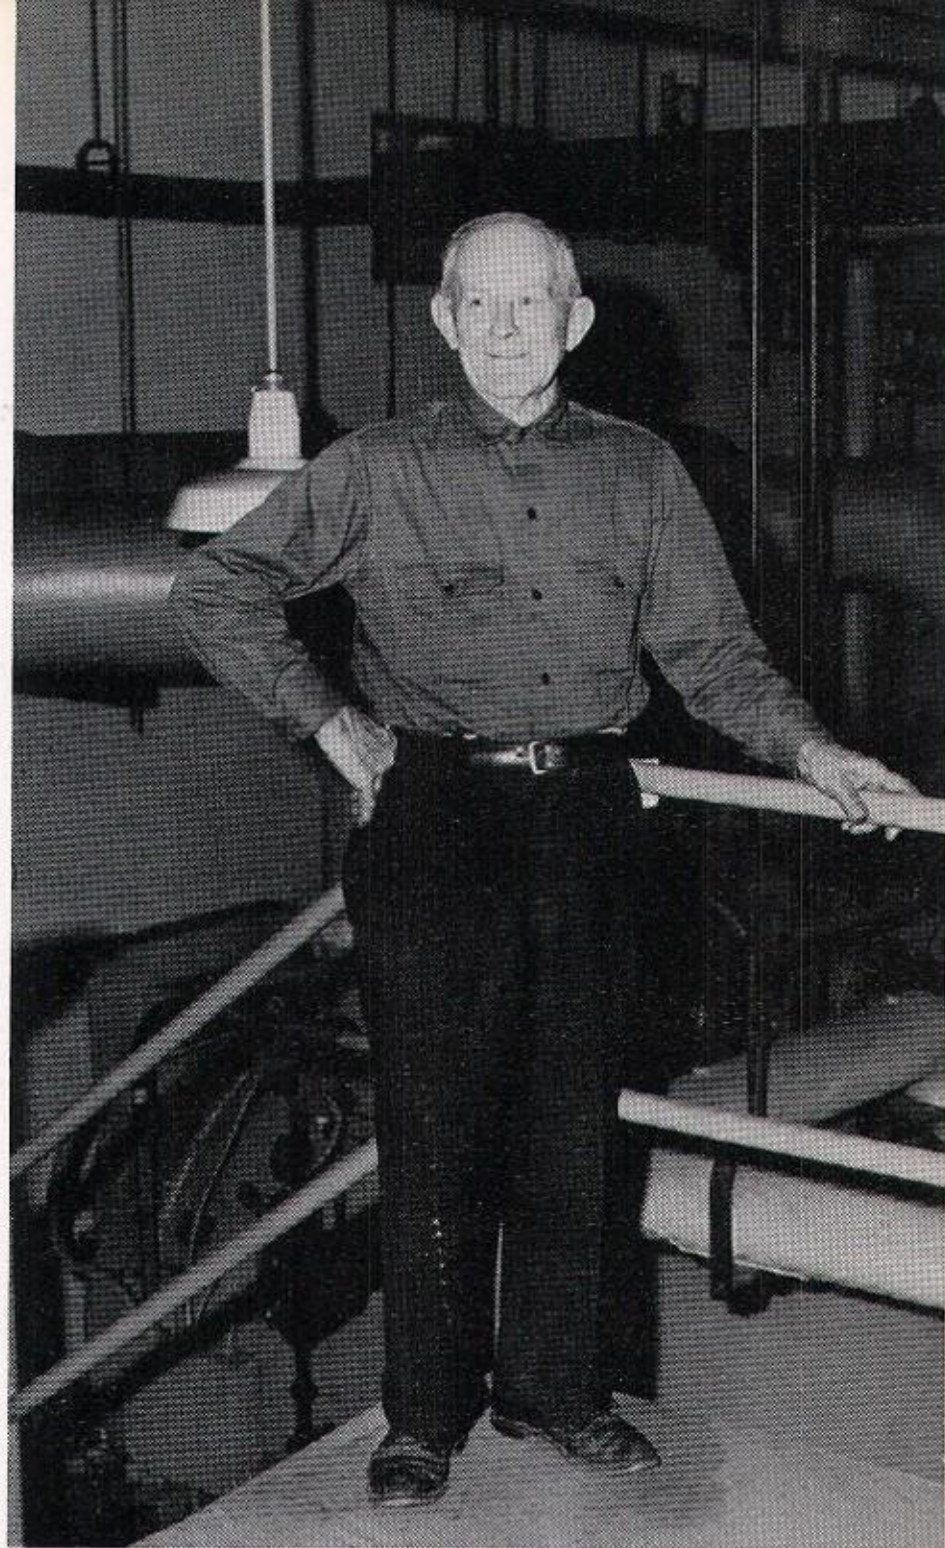

The man who keeps us in paper and other supplies is Mr. Henry Zimmerman, our Business Manager. In addition, Mr. Zimmerman is head of the custodians for the entire district. The great responsibilities which rest upon him do credit to his sense of organization.

GUIDANCE

To enable us to draft our "BLUEPRINT FOR SUCCESS," we need precision tools. As an architect depends on his pencil and t-square, our blueprint depends on guidance. We are given this guidance by our teachers who have aided, praised, and, when necessary, criticized us. As the t-square guides the architect's pencil, so do our teachers guide us in order that our blueprint may be perfect. In our "BLUEPRINT FOR SUCCESS" we find numerous fine but impressionable lines. With these slight lines, we form a pattern with which to build our lives, and the line of guidance forms the sturdy base for lives. If this base should be drawn wrong in any way, we would not have as perfect a life. To express our appreciation we dedicate this portion of our book to those who helped make it possible—our teachers.

Leads to Job Success Tomorrow

Students who choose to follow a BLUE-PRINT FOR SUCCESS in business are provided with excellent facilities to develop their skills. The various courses offer an educational foundation for employment in secretarial, clerical, or general office work. From the basic education obtained in junior business training to the complex elements of free enterprise grasped in economics, pupils receive an extensive education in modern business methods from Mount Penn's Business Education Department teachers in a manner that is characteristically efficient.

World understanding is something all of us hope for. The Mt. Penn language department plays a big part in developing this concept in the student. Emphasis is placed not merely upon learning a language, but on becoming familiar with customs and topography.

This year, the highlight of the school social season was the Fasching-Mardi Gras Ball. The gym was transformed into a veritable fairyland of cafe scenes and band pavilions.

Mt. Penn is fortunate to possess three such excellent language instructors.

The objective of the mathematics department is to teach students the art of logical and orderly thinking. Every day of our lives we in some way apply the forces of learning acquired from our mathematical mentors. The basic understanding of math which we receive here at Mt. Penn is beneficial in all the other subjects where math might be used. The study of mathematics, from arithmetic through geometry and trigonometry, paves the way for students to go out into the business world or on to college.

Mr. Richard Bierly points out the principles of set theory to William Westcott, an 8-1 student.

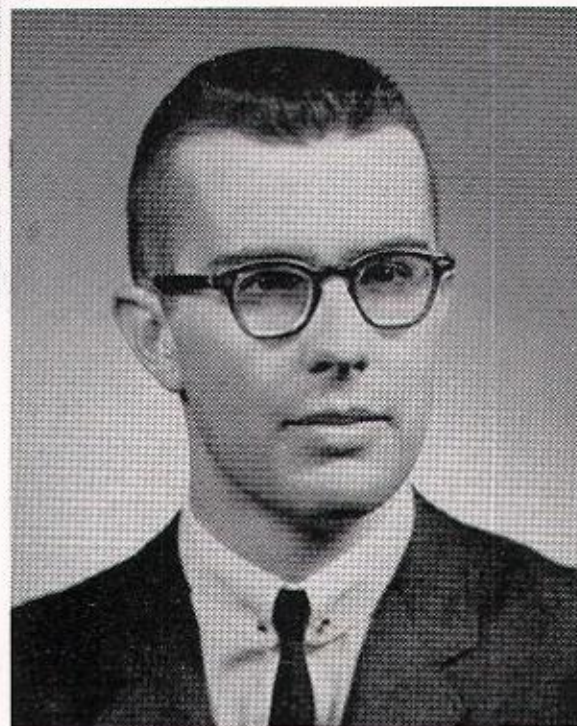

Modern Labs and Good Equipment

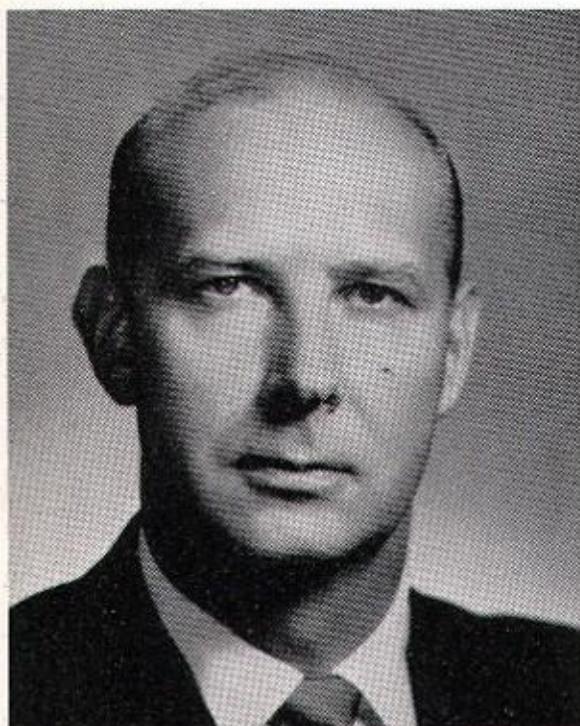

"SHALL WE LET IT RIP?" Mr. Bartle queries Deborah Paris, Amy Knoblauch, and Robert Breitebam.

Science is a field which affects our lives every day—whether we are sitting in biology class, or repairing an electric cord. To keep our students abreast of scientific advancements, Mt. Penn possesses four very able instructors. Basic foundations are laid in general science; biology, chemistry, and physics are also offered.

Mt. Penn is fortunate to have three well-equipped laboratories; here the students have an opportunity to conduct experiments and see the results for themselves. We are grateful for the advantages given us by the science department.

Every man needs an awareness of history. The fine social studies department here at Mt. Penn is equipped to give us that consciousness of past events which may influence future incidents. Social studies, however, is not merely the study of the man's actions on our planet, but the study of the world around us and what it is comprised of.

Students are offered courses in economics and are apprised of situations in our business community through our weekly forum seminars.

Everyone should realize the advantages of becoming a conscientious social studies student.

Art can take many forms from Van Gogh to Rembrandt to Wyeth. The art department, under Mr. Gerald Romich, endeavors to cultivate an awareness of the many elements of art.

Through work in different media, the student has a chance to express his own inner feelings, and to make that feeling visible to others. Art is but one of the many courses offered at Mt. Penn which tend to produce a well-rounded individual.

Driver Training is a very useful skill. Taught by Mr. Gershom Krom, the course is a valuable one for any student who decides to learn to drive.

MR. LESTER YEAGER SKILLFULLY DIRECTS THE BAND DURING AN AFTERNOON REHEARSAL.

Music at Mount Penn entails more than merely singing. Mr. Lester Yeager strives to instill in his students an appreciation of the world's finest music. The use of the record player is a large part of his classes. Mr. Yeager also endeavors to have his classes learn to read music and become familiar with different instruments. The school is fortunate to have such a fine musician on its staff.

A recent addition to the music department is Mrs. Ruth Keeney. Although Mrs. Keeney is only at the high school on Mondays, we see the evidence of her work with the Junior Chorus. During the French assembly, Mrs. Keeney directed the chorus in its selections. We hope Mrs. Keeney has found her first year in our district to be a fulfilling one.

The need for acquainting young men with the field of industrial arts is very evident. Mount Penn is fortunate in having modern and practical equipment for the use of its students.

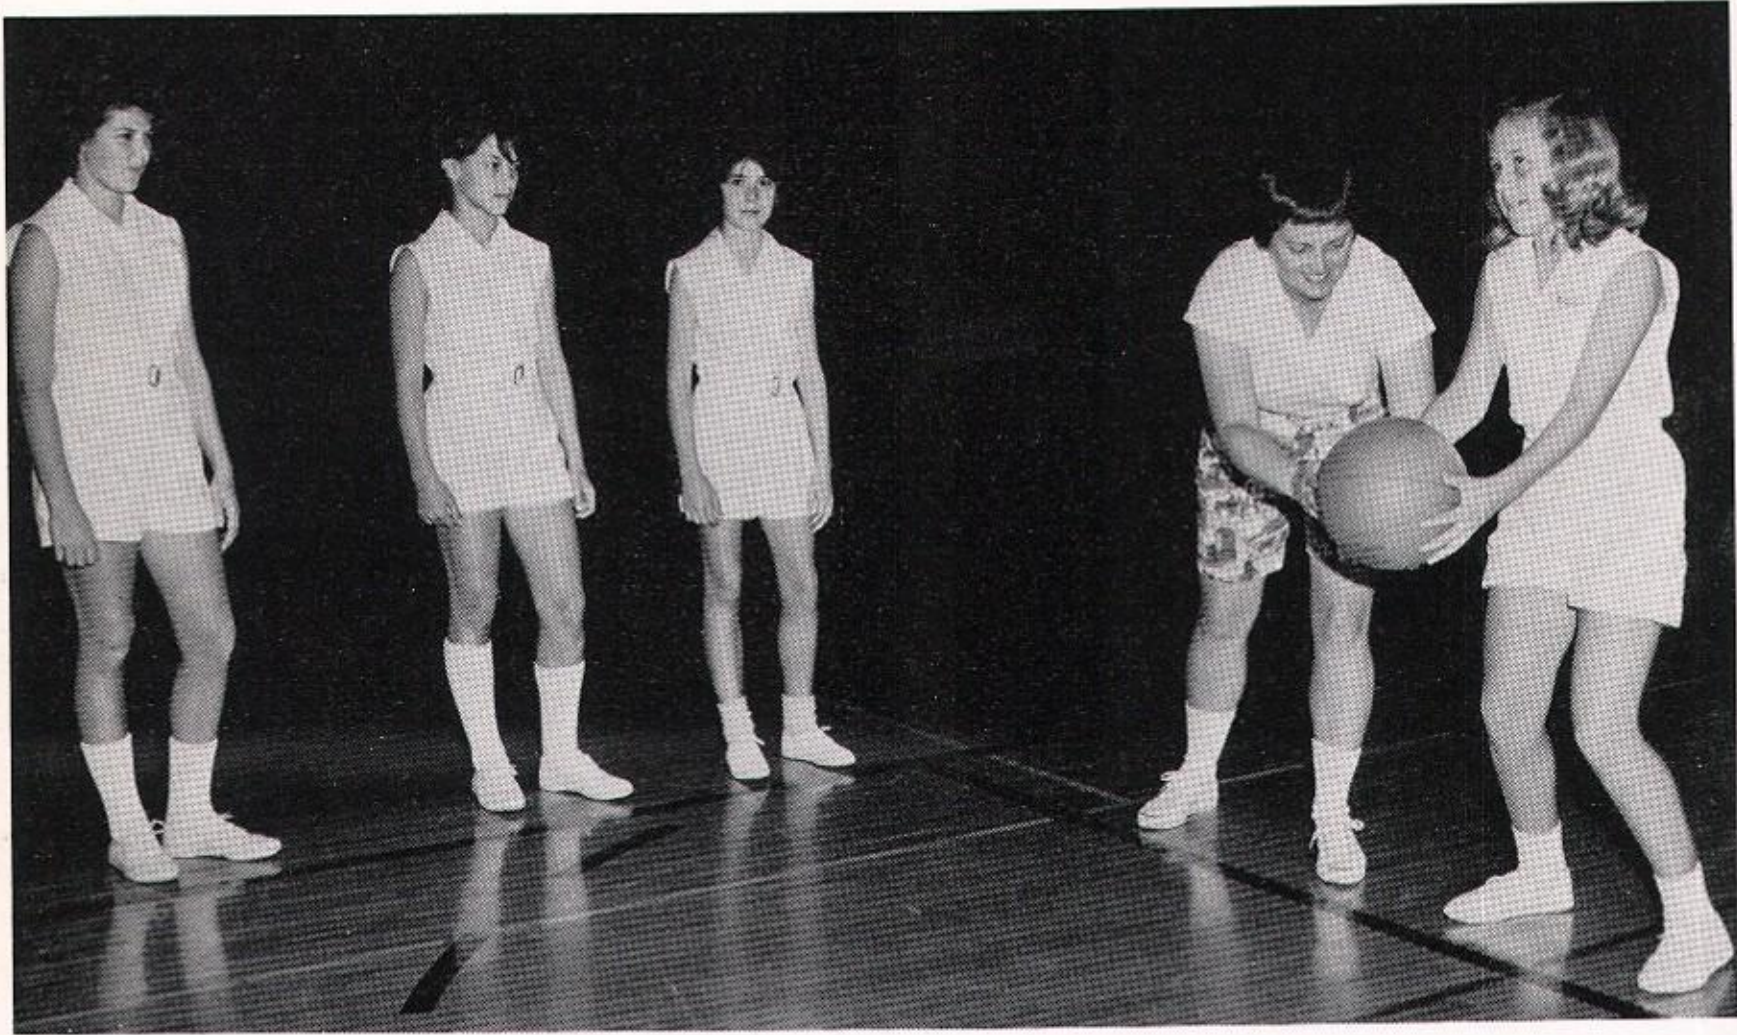

The industrial arts department consists of four definite sections—metal shop, wood shop, print shop, and mechanical drawing—to suit the interests of all. The future is filled with unlimited opportunities for those students interested in employing their vocational skills.

A fit mind and a fit body go hand in hand. Miss Anita Geiger and Mr. Ronald Himmelberger aim to make the students aware of their full capacities. A varied program of sports—from hockey and soccer to gymnastics and volleyball—is presented to awaken an interest in physical education. The activities are designed to teach discipline, teamwork, and fair play.

Health classes provide a tri-weekly forum for the discussion of first aid and common diseases. Audio visual aids are put to full use in the teaching of anatomy.

The school has reason to be proud of its fine physical education department.

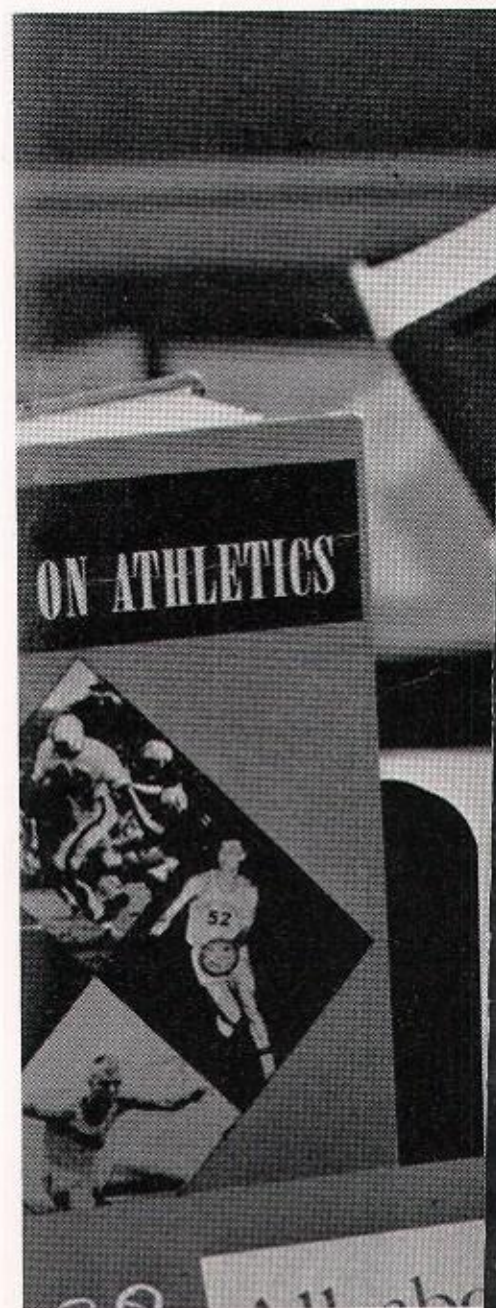

Reading Skills and Library Use

Anyone who has ever made a book report or researched for a report knows the value of a good library and a good librarian to go with it. Mt. Penn is indeed fortunate to possess both. Mrs. Dorothy Gallagher efficiently runs the library by doing a number of jobs which would make most people give up. Her aid in finding just the right book has been invaluable to innumerable students.

Are Vital

Mrs. Cathryn Hart, however, is the person who develops the good readers who use our library. It is through her efforts that we become aware of the pleasures of reading. Reading skills are vital to all of us; if we cannot read, we cannot learn. Reading is one of life's great joys. It is through books that we share all the world's adventures. We owe Mrs. Hart a great deal for instilling a love of reading in our students.

ENDEAVOR

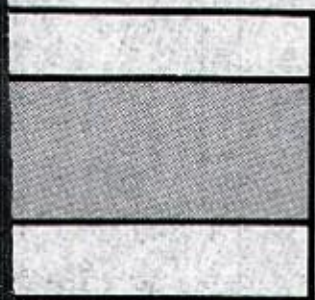

We, the senior class of 1964, are the leaders of today. Behind us we leave the leaders of tomorrow. They will judge themselves by our accomplishments or mistakes, but we shall leave a part of us at Mt. Penn. Behind each line drawn in our "BLUEPRINT FOR SUCCESS" lies much planning and careful thought, as behind each year that we serve as students lies thought and hard work. With each year we endeavor to perfect ourselves. We labor so that we may assume leadership and responsibility. If we succeed, we shall set an example for others to follow, and if not, we serve as a warning. We shall continue to strive, but now we leave Mt. Penn High School in the hands of those who follow—and to whom we dedicate this portion of our book.

Figure 1 consists of two side-by-side grayscale micrographs, labeled (a) and (b). Micrograph (a) shows a surface with a fine, somewhat uniform granular texture. Micrograph (b) shows a similar surface but with more pronounced, larger-scale granular features and some darker, irregular patches, suggesting a change in surface morphology after treatment.

Factors of Success Assemble . . .

Grade school doors closed behind them for the last time; our seventh graders can now look ahead to the challenges that will confront them as they travel high school's road to success.

Instead of one teacher to guide them, they now have several. There are no academic or athletic fields unwilling to offer them a place. With each year their newly acquired skills will mount and take form, until, at last, when their schooling is completed, they can look back on this year with wistful reminiscence—for how simple it was then!

Some may view this year as insignificant, but how indispensable it really is. As with a blue print's intricate parts, each year of one's schooling cannot be discarded without a notable loss. Seventh grade is the foundation in which to build great things.

Qualities of Service and Honor

Having survived their term as "greenies", our eighth graders have experienced a small taste of junior high school life. No longer the underdogs, they can look down with haughty disdain upon the students in whose footsteps they used to walk. Perhaps their most trying year is behind them, and they can look ahead to greater things.

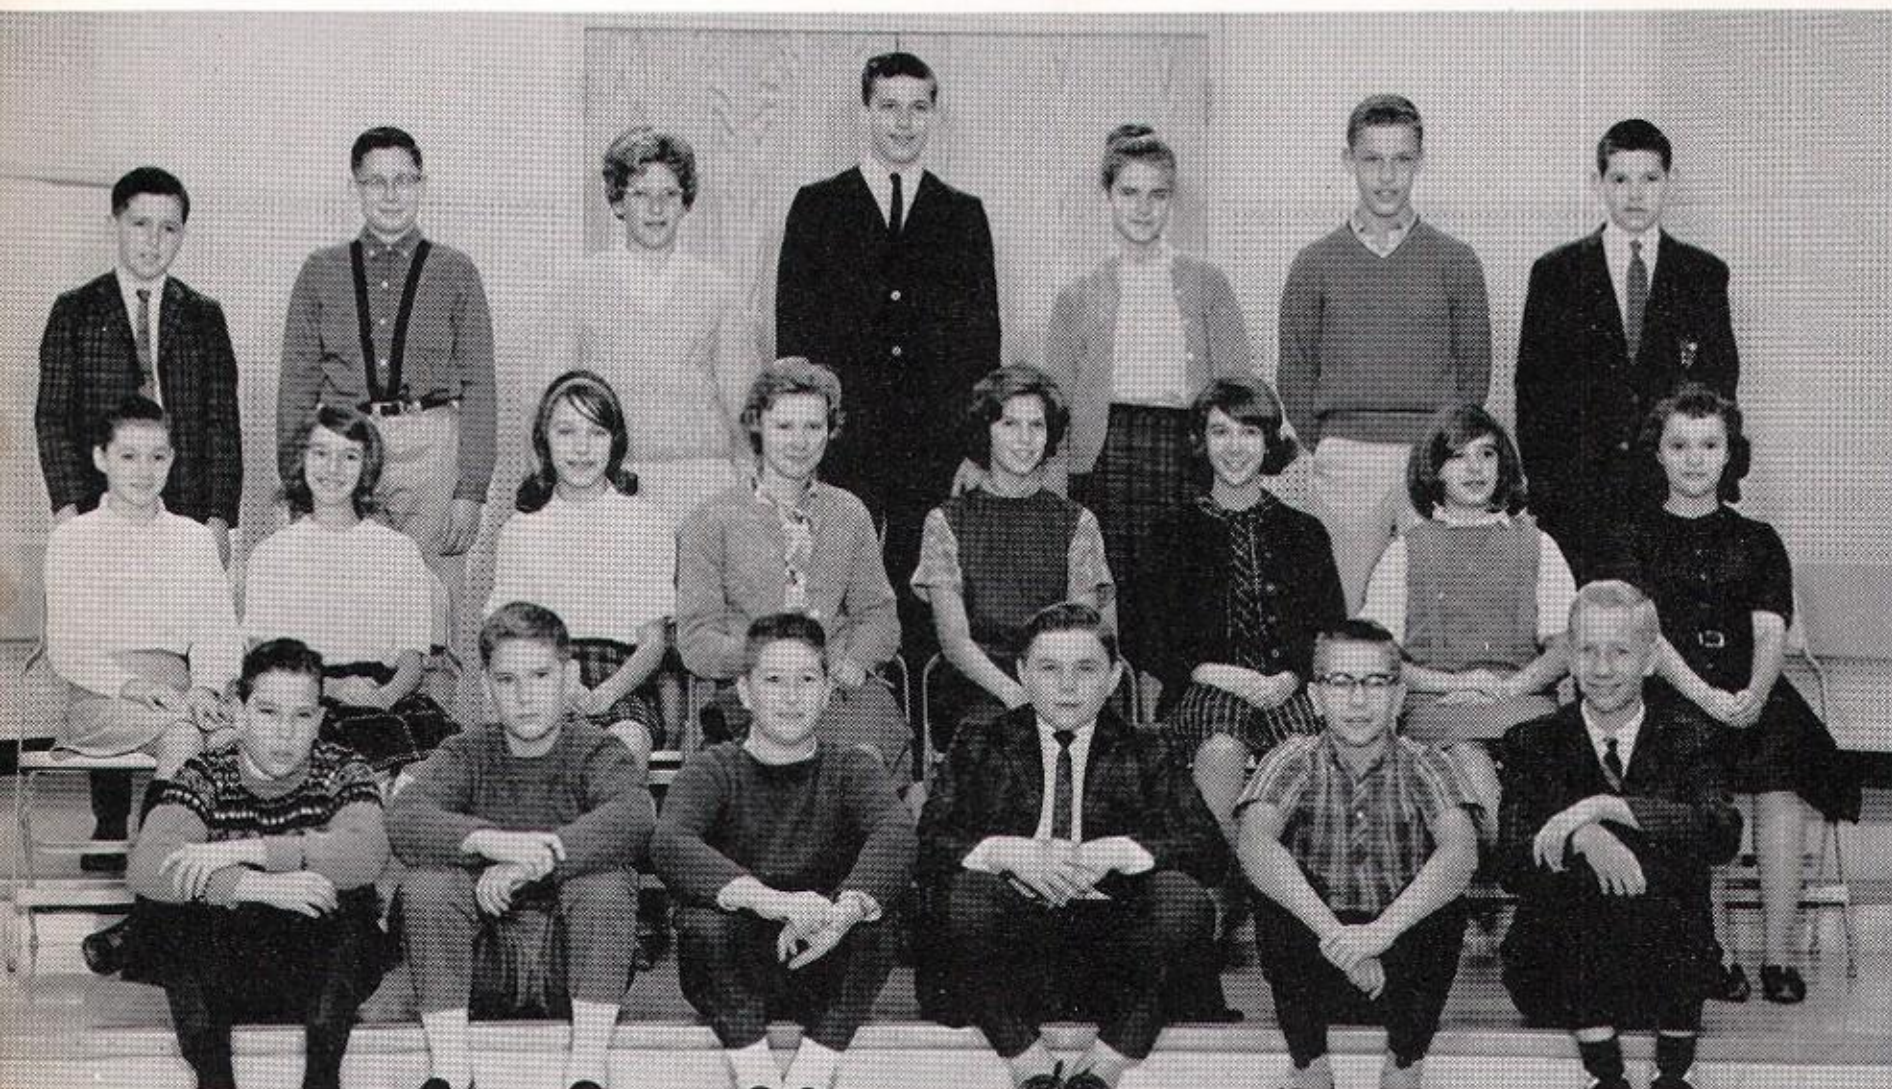

They have constructed a firm foundation during the past year for their road to success, and many already have aspirations for their future vocations. They have displayed their usefulness in Junior High Sports and have won honor roll standings. They have broadened their friendships and picked out favorite teachers.

Our eighth graders are just beginning their climb to a bright future. If they plan well and use their facilities wisely their finished product will be happily satisfied and successful students.

Freshmen Form a Complete Level

67

Our ninth graders are shining examples of those worldly students who have successfully completed the rigorous hardships of junior high. Now, on the threshold of senior high school, they face the greater challenges of scholarship and leadership. They have laid a firm foundation for their structure of success and have been duly recognized for their efforts. Their faces and actions have become familiar to the rest of the student body.

The opportunity to participate in junior-varsity sports have been offered to them and they have clearly illustrated their athletic prowess.

Yes, the freshmen are "in." They can look forward to three more years of steadily moving up the ladder of success to complete their blueprint.

Windows Through Which to View

As sophomores, the tenth grade has begun to weld itself into a closely-knit, hard-working group. For the first time, they are being pushed to accept the responsibilities which go along with senior high. There is money needed to build the treasury, dances and assemblies to organize, and numerous sales to promote.

The blueprint is just beginning to take on a semblance of order. It will take two more years to reach completion.

The Blueprint Is About Perfect

With four years of successfully completed high school terms behind them, our Juniors stand tall and proud beside their long list of achievements. Our present Junior class boasts many outstanding individuals who have distinguished themselves as leaders in both academic and athletic fields. They have successfully performed their first class play and many already veterans in National Honor Society.

As our future senior class, they have used foresight and planned wisely with their budget—which so often doesn't reach! As the heads of next year's student organizations they will display their leadership and dependability.

We're proud of our eleventh graders—they have paved a wide road towards their successful future, and adequately fulfill Mt. Penn's standards for friendly, well-rounded students.

OPPORTUNITY

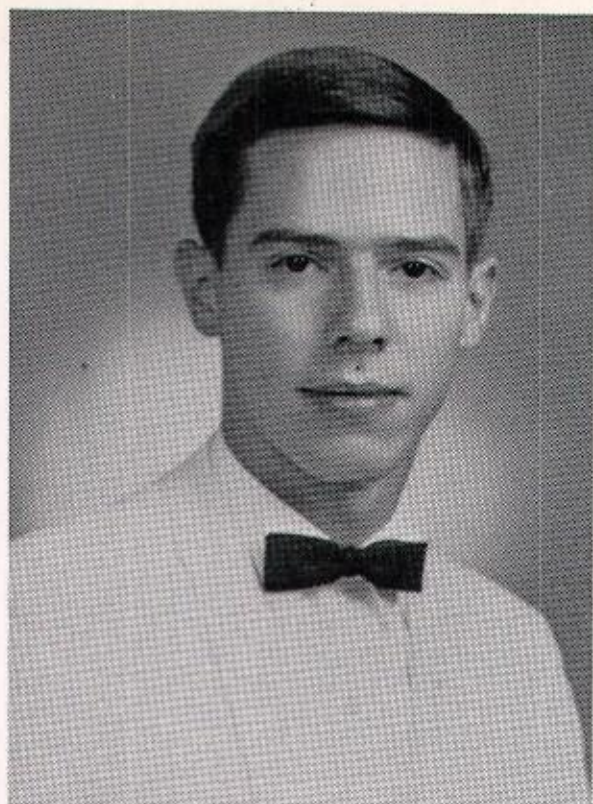

The blueprints have been drawn for the class of 1964. As seniors, and throughout their entire school career, they have worked together and had fun together forming bases for friendships, goals, and ideals. Their ultimate aim is to achieve success. What kind of success? Many will strive toward monetary goals, others toward powerful, prestige-commanding positions, others toward further academic study, and others toward time for leisure and happiness. All, however, should hold one common goal—the attainment of satisfaction in life. Each senior has been given a blueprint. His use of it shall determine how successfully he constructs his life; opportunity awaits each one. These next pages are dedicated to the members of the senior class, in the hope that they take advantage of all future opportunities.

"TYPE FASTER, PAM. WE WANT TO GET THIS YEARBOOK OUT ON TIME!" urge the helpful assistant editors from the unseen background. Pamala Barr served capably as editor-in chief.

Dear Reader:

This year's PENN ALMA staff has worked many long hours to put this book in its final form. Those who read it, and have no connection with the yearbook, will never know the hours of just plain hard work which went into it. This book is the culmination of all our years in school. It is the only permanant record which we will have of this year—1964.

I would like to thank all the students, faculty, and administrators who helped in any way to make this book possible. A special thank you goes to all the mothers who were willing to have their homes turned into yearbook offices.

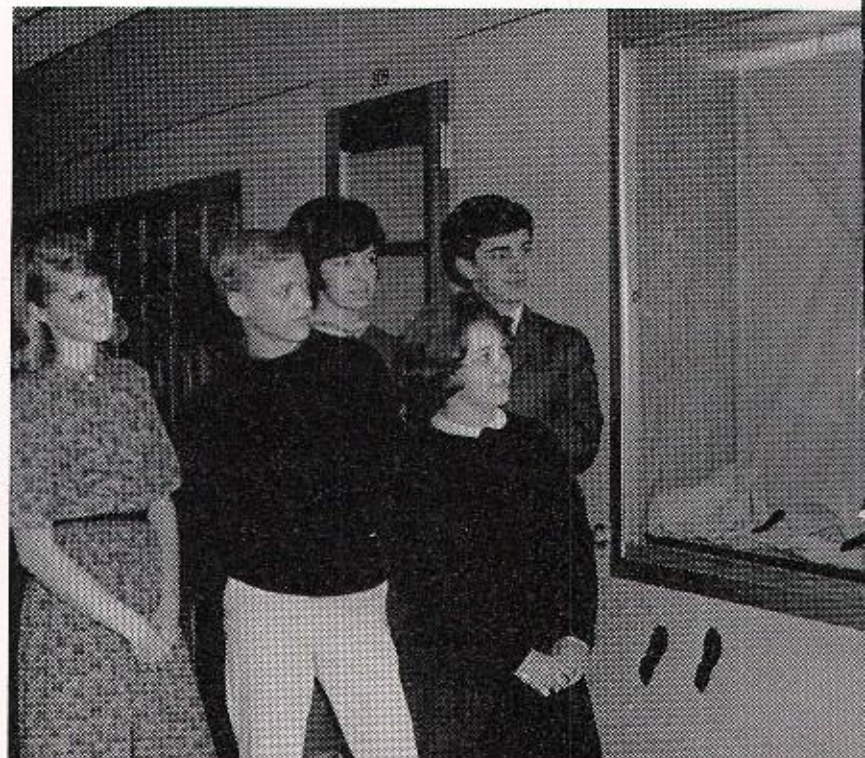

Sincerely yours,
Pamala Barr
Editor-in-Chief

COOPERATION

As does each line in our "BLUEPRINT FOR SUCCESS" depend upon the others to form a perfectly finished product, so do we strive to work with others to reach a goal that cannot be reached alone. Through the clubs and organizations of our school, we work as a unit to attain a final product. This product may consist of winning a contest or successfully producing a class play, but it depends upon cooperation. If, in our "BLUEPRINT FOR SUCCESS," even the least important line were missing, the entire plan would be useless. Cooperation forms a shelter for our plans and protects them until they are completed. We dedicate this portion of our yearbook to those organizations which foster and nourish cooperation.

Leaders in Student Conduct and

The Student Council is one of the most important organizations in any school; it is the governing body for the students, and all its members are elected by their fellow students.

Under the able guidance of Mr. Richard Hamilton, the Council has sponsored a number of rousing pep rallies. The highlight of the last rally was a basketball game between the varsity cheerleaders and the varsity squad; naturally the girls won easily. The book sale, for the second year, has once more proved a successful venture.

The entire school has good reason to be proud of such a forward-looking body.

Scholarship Set High Standards

"OH BOY, ALL THE BACK ISSUES OF MAD." l. to r., are—Peter McGow, Barry Diamond, Thomas Smith, David Reichlein, Richard Loeper, Marie Farina, and Ronald Christman.

Membership in the National Honor Society is the highest attainment of any student's career. National Honor Society endeavors to promote the ideals of character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

One of the highlights of every year is the National Honor Society assembly in which the new members are made known and inducted. Because membership is limited to 5% of the Sophomore Class, 10% of the Junior Class, and 15% of the Senior Class it is indeed a privilege to be accepted into the ranks. The Society, under the leadership of Mrs. Dorothy Gallagher, submits names of those eligible to a faculty committee. Members are chosen by a faculty vote.

The calibre of students in National Honor Society continues to make membership in it a distinct honor.

Another year, jam-packed with activity, has been concluded by the Mount Penn Y-Teens. A large measure of praise goes to Miss Jane Cunnius, Advisor, for her invaluable guidance. These hard-working girls have given their time and energy to such projects as co-sponsoring the annual welcome dance, distributing voters guides, conducting a UNICEF drive, preparing an after-school snack for teachers, and providing thanksgiving dinners for two needy families.

Talents have been displayed in a Brotherhood assembly and a spring fashion show.

Mount Penn certainly owes a great deal to these conscientious young women.

Miss Jane Cunnius
Teacher-of-the-Year

The purpose of the Mount Penn High School Key Club is to develop and promote the ideals of leadership, human and spiritual primacy, the Golden Rule, high moral and ethical standards, aggressive citizenship, and enduring mutual friendships. The boys learn to give freely of themselves, and devote hours upon hours of time to charitable undertakings.

During the year the Key Club sponsored many fund-raising activities, such as scrap drive, a homemade soup sale, the selling of programs and refreshments at basketball games, and the co-sponsorship of the annual welcome dance. These funds are in turn used to finance various service projects.

As its first service project of the year, Key Club held an orientation at the high school for all seventh graders. The purpose of the orientation was to acquaint the new members of the student body with the school and the teachers. Following this came the annual Alumni Dinner, with Dr. Carl F. Constein as the guest speaker. One of the most successful projects during the year was the Teachers' and Leaders' Banquet.

Its purpose was to honor those students who most contribute to the organization of school activities. Also honored at the banquet was Miss Jane Cunnius, chosen by the Key Clubbers as Teacher-of-the-Year. The guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Michael Austin, noted physician and hypnotist. Other service projects for the 1963-1964 school year consisted of canvassing for the Heart Association and selling bread to raise money for the March of Dimes.

Mr. Harold Stern, serving in his new capacity as Key Club advisor, has helped to make this year a great success. He and his Key Clubbers can certainly feel proud of a job well done.

U.N. Club Builds Democracy

Now in its second year the Mt. Penn United Nations Club has continued to attract students interested in foreign affairs.

Under the advisorship of Miss Jane Cunnius, the club represented USSR, France, Poland, and Nigeria at the High School Model United Nations Conference held annually at Albright College. The Model U. N. is governed by the same procedures as the United Nations, with a Secretary General and the various councils.

This year's East Coast Model U. N. was held at Mt. Vernon, New York, where the club represented Iraq. The democratic principles learned in connection with the preparation of materials is an advantage welcomed by these student diplomats.

Resuming his duties as debating coach, Mr. Lawrence Rickolt has done a fine job guiding his team through another challenging season. The serious and meaningful topic selected was "Resolved: That the Federal Government should provide complete medical care for all citizens at public expense."

It is by no means a light task to write speeches either supporting or opposing this resolution. Many hours of hard work are put into developing the proper phrasing and preparing quick rebuttals.

Debating is one of the best ways to display mental prowess and the students who participate in it are to be congratulated.

newsworthy Notes

PLEASED WITH A JOB WELL DONE ARE—I. to r., Gary Epstein and Karen Armstrong, co-editors; and Miss Emily Yocom, advisor.

Membership in the PENN POST aids students in developing literary tastes and talents. Under the careful guidance of Miss Emily Yocom, faculty advisor, the students compose an interesting and informative newspaper. The demand of meeting a monthly deadline, trains reporters and editors alike, in the art of journalistic self-discipline. The great responsibility delegated to these young people today, will help them develop into solid citizens of tomorrow.

The PENN POST

The PENN POST is published bi-monthly by the students of Mount Penn High School. The newspaper is distributed free to every student of Mount Penn High School. The PENN POST is a member of the Pennsylvania School Press Association.

Mt. Penn High School is indeed fortunate that its business students express interest enough to have four business organizations. The services they render are greatly appreciated.

The Future Business Leaders of America, under the advisorship of Mrs. Ellen C. Weber, is an active, progressive organization which strives to give pleasure to its members while at the same time providing the needed discipline of work. The Mt. Penn Chapter of the F.B.L.A. was privileged to play host for the Regional F.B.L.A. this past year.

Included in their many service activities were a Heart Fund Drive, food baskets for the needy, and May Day flowers for the teachers. F.B.L.A. also supervises "Operation Ditto" and "Operation Service." These are the students who do any type of duplicating, filing, or typing job that has to be done throughout the school.

A completely new group has just been formed this year under Mrs. Weber's leadership. The Future Merchants of America provide an enjoyable treat every Thursday by selling delicious soft pretzels. In addition, they have been actively engaged in promotional ideas for Junior Class projects.

Our thanks to the business organizations for a job well done.

Whenever the student body is shown a film, either in class or assembly, you can be sure the Audio-Visual Aids Club is on the job. The group, headed by Mr. Richard Hartman, makes itself responsible for all the knowledge which is involved in running the technical equipment.

In addition, the boys must know how to set up, and operate tape recorders, cameras, record players, and lights, as well as several types of projectors.

Mt. Penn High School is indeed fortunate to possess such a wide range of audio-visual apparatus and the students to make it function.

The Poster Club performs a very necessary job for the school. Anytime you wish to publicize an event, the Poster Club will gladly provide the needed art work. Under the leadership of Mr. Gerald Romich, the club strives to produce the neatest, eye-appealing posters possible. The various activities throughout the school are deeply appreciative of all the work which the Poster Club does.

Sweet trumpets and smooth saxophones are but a part of Mt. Penn's excellent Dance Band. The band lends its harmonious tones to plays and any other school activity which may require its services. The Dance Band, which puts the frosting on many activities, merits our applause.

Young, but learning, describes our Junior Band members. These are the musicians who will join the ranks of the Senior Band in a few years. Keep up the tempo!

Banners Floating Triumphant

The click of boots, and shouts of "mark time—march" can be heard as our untiring color guard starts on its way. Proudly bearing the orange and black of Mount Penn, the guard steps high and lively. Practicing for the Pretzel Bowl is probably the greatest duty of these school-spirited girls.

Stepping out in style are Mount Penn's perky majorettes. Through a barrage of batons, the girls can be seen wending their way down a crowded parade route. Faint whispers of "guide right and smile," can be heard from all sides. Knowing that "practice makes perfect," the girls make use of spare moments to perfect intricate twirls and formations, all of which combine to make their marching prowess unsurpassable.

THE FAMILIAR ORDER "GET IN STEP" IS ISSUED BY HEAD MAJORETTE, KRISTIN ZECHMAN.

Music Is Their Stock

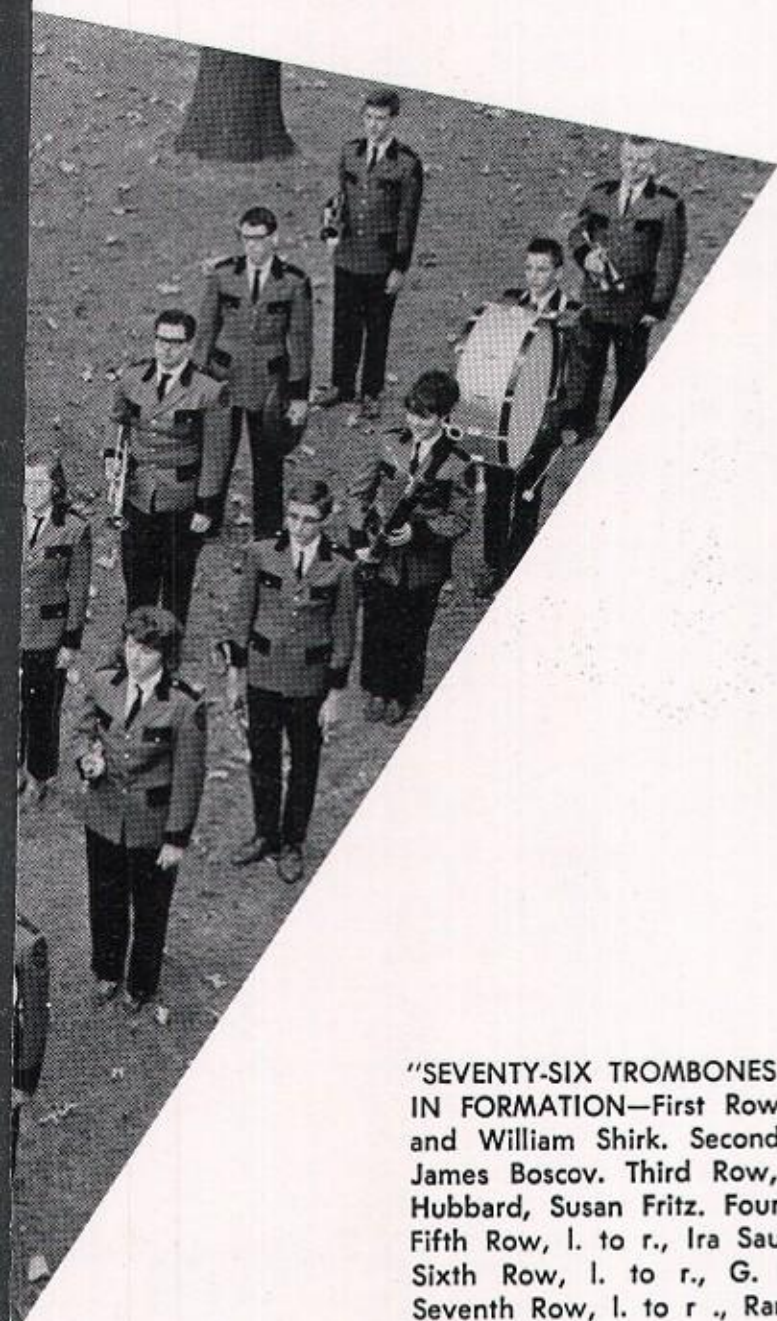

The Band Marches Proudly

Mt. Penn's Senior Band provides the school with musical entertainment for any occasion. A lively march greets the students during pep rallies; slow easy passages welcome them to assemblies. Under the direction of Mr. Lester Yeager, the band marched proudly in the Antietam Valley Recreation Center Community 4th-of-July Parade, at half time at the Pretzel Bowl Game, and during the Armed Forces Day Parade.

When the weather is warm the band can be seen marching along the streets of Mt. Penn and Pennside. Three musicians were privileged to participate in higher levels of Band. Richard Stover attended the county, district, region and state bands. Michael Roland went to county and district band. Susan Boscov participated in county and district band, and district orchestra. During the week of April 6, District Orchestra gathered at Mount Penn High School for its annual concert. The school appreciates the efforts of our hard-working band.

The members of the Boys' and Girls' Leader Corps all display athletic ability, good sportsmanship, and a willingness to work. The main purpose of these energetic young people is to assist Miss Geiger and Mr. Himmelberger with their daily gym classes. However, this is not their only activity. They can often be found setting up gymnastic apparatus in the mornings, or participating in games and techniques during elective periods.

Perhaps the greatest and most time-consuming activity of the Leader Corps is the presentation of its annual Gymnastic Exhibition. In a combined effort, the boys and girls practice long hours to perfect the difficult routines displayed during the show. This year, as always, the Gymnastic Exhibition was a tremendous success, and the Leader Corps deserves a large round of applause.

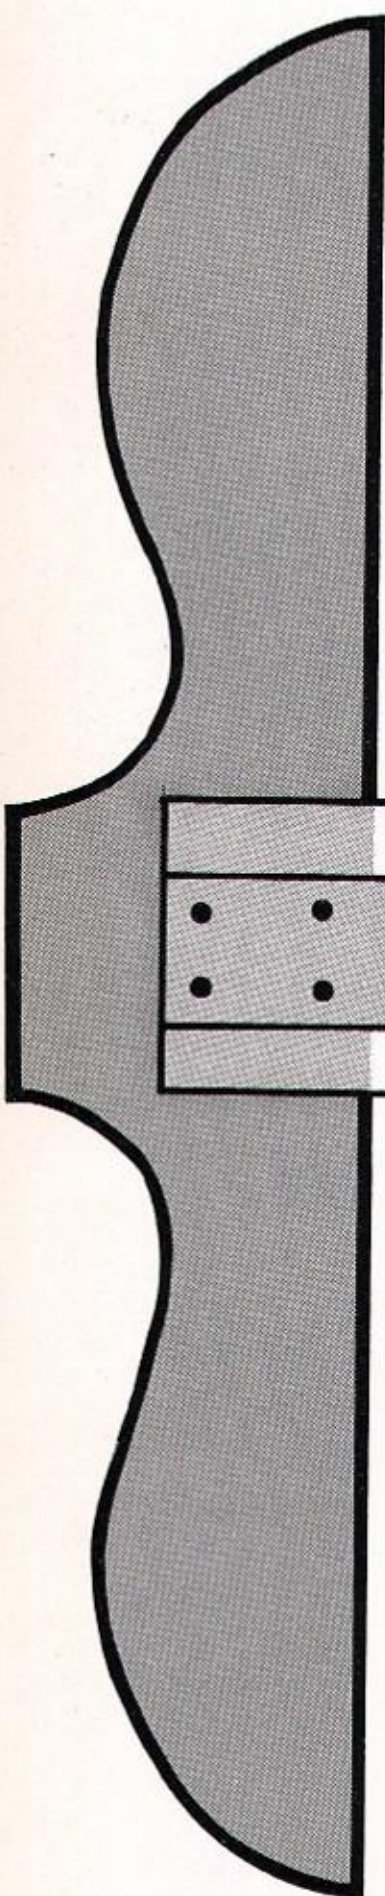

The Leader Corps is truly an asset to both the school and student body, and its members are sincerely grateful to Miss Geiger and Mr. Himmelberger for the time spent with them.

SPORTSMANSHIP

How thrilling it is to see a fleet-footed athlete bound for the basket, placing a gracefully executed shot. How free seems the baseball player as he connects bat with ball and runs swiftly towards the base. What great satisfaction is in store for the soccer player as he sends the ball soaring toward the goal cage. Win or lose, our athletes enjoy their games, and the students like to watch them. Good sportsmanship makes half the game worthwhile—the rest is right there for you to see. Sportsmanship is yet another quality which is an integral part of our "BLUE-PRINT FOR SUCCESS." This portion of our book we dedicate to those who have made our sports teams possible.

PLANNING STRATEGY WITH THEIR COACH, MR. RONALD HIMMELBERGER, ARE THE SOCCER CO-CAPTAINS, CHARLES VOZELLA AND MICHAEL ROLAND.

The 1963 season opened with Coach Ronald Himmelberger's team being downed by Reading High (2-0) in a non-league tilt. Veterans Mike Roland, Donald Weller, and "Chip" Vozella had to carry the brunt of the game due to the inexperience of the newer members.

With a little experience under their belts, our boys took on powerful Twin Valley. Due to a few mental lapses, the Mounts fell to the tune of 2-0. Traveling to Hamburg, the Mount's goalie, Herb Davis, put on a one-man defensive battle. But one man does not make a team and our team came out second best 1-0.

The Mountaineers then played the Scouts of Conrad Weiser. Our booters led until the last minute when the Scouts converted two penalty kicks to come out on top 2-1. Schuylkill Valley was next in line. As the game sawsawed across the field the Panthers managed to score. The Mount's Jim Houser found range and the game ended in a 1-1 stalemate.

As the season progressed the result remained the same. Tulpehocken and Oley both matched the Mounts by the score of 2-0. The Kutztown battle was a gallant effort by the boys from Mt. Penn but found us on bottom 3-0. The season closed with the Mounts falling prey to Brandywine 4-1 and Fleetwood 3-0.

Coach Ronald Himmelberger feels that although the year's record was a poor one, the experience gained by the many underclassmen will serve as the backbone of a powerful team in the years to come.

For the second year in a row, our plucky mountainettes have brought home the laurels. Behind the victories and the fun, however, lies a driving will to win and equal measures of ambitions, perseverance, and cooperation.

Many grueling hours of practice go on behind the scenes, with Miss Anita Geiger's encouraging cries of "Run! Run!" Every member of the team made a substantial contribution to the ability endurance, and good sportsmanship of the group as a whole. We are all very proud of Miss Geiger and her champions!

Under the very capable leadership of Miss Anita Geiger, our lively misses introduced a dance at half-time of the varsity games to the music of "Let's go." We know the boys appreciated their efforts.

Varsity Aims Toward Next Year

The Mount Penn High Varsity, under Coach Glenn Bartle, brought its campaign to a close with a heart-breaking loss to Oley Valley 54-50 in an overtime period. The Mounts took the home floor that night seeking revenge for Lynx earlier in the year.

The beginning of the year saw Bartle's boys downed by Hamburg, Western Division Champions, 88-30. This was not the complete story of this year's varsity, however. Through the year the Mountaineers completed a 4-and-10-league record and a 5-and-16-overall mark.

The team defeated Wyomissing for its lone non-league win. Twice during league play Twin Valley fell victim to the Mounts, and Brandywine was also a two-time loser against our team.

This year saw junior Donald Weller wage a scoring duel with Dick Graucher for honors of the Eastern Division. Two poor nights against Kutztown, forced Donald to finish in third place with 248 points for an average of 17.7 points per game. Donald's scoring lieutenant for the Mounts was senior Gary Epstein with 119 points in league action.

Next year will see the return of Donald Weller, Richard Herbst, Larry Ludwig, Robert Zimmerman, David Schaeffer, Bruce Herschok, and James Houser.

Graduation this year will take the services of Gary Epstein, Mike Roland, Donald Matz, and Joseph Ravetz.

The 1963-64 season brought only one more win than last year, but the team never showed lack of interest. With the bustle and attitude displayed by this year's varsity, the teams of the future are bound to pick-up the winning combination and bring home better records.

ACHIEVEMENT

What has happened to the seniors of yesteryear? They have already begun investigating life. While in high school each of them was forming his own "BLUEPRINT FOR SUCCESS." Some have begun to lay the foundations for their lives, others are still searching for convenient sites on which to bring the blueprint into actuality. Perhaps others have thrown their blueprints away. Some have already achieved a small measure of greatness, others have yet to do so. Here are some scenes from their high school days, days which formed their blueprints as they lay on the drawing board. We dedicate the following portion of our yearbook to our 1963 alumni in the hope that they achieve their ultimate goals.

ollows Dinner During '63 Gala

The soft strains of music provided by the Skyliners set the stage for a delightful evening of dancing and entertainment. The Reading Country Club was the setting for our 1963 Senior Prom. The highlight of the evening—the coronation of the Queen of the Prom, Suzanne Youse, was presided over by Mr. William I. Purnell, assisted by members of Mt. Penn P-TA.

In the Queen's Court were Carol Schildt, Judith Williamson, Mary-Lynn Zimmerman and Carol Levin. At midnight, the Queen and all the other seniors donned casual attire for bowling at Jay Lanes and breakfast at the Crystal Restaurant.

Senior Class Advisor William I. Purnell watches as the bouquet is presented to our 1963 Prom Queen Suzanne Youse.

Bonnie Sandt, Prom Queen of 1962, places regal ware upon lovely brow of Suzanne Youse, elected Queen of 1963 Prom. With the Royal twosome are Queen Suzanne's Court, l. to r. Carol Schildt, Judith Williamson, Mary-Lynn Zimmerman, and Carol Levin.

Class

A prom is more than a night of dancing. It is rather the garnish to an elaborate contrivance which we label "our years in high school." What more appropriate way can we find to honor these years than with a formal dinner, which for many of us, is our first such affair. On May 29, 1963, the Class of 1963, attired in eye-catching gowns and stiffly starched shirts and bow ties, assembled at the Reading Country Club for their last encore before the social footlights, dined upon chicken, with memories and anticipation.

THE ART OF LIVING

We come to school to learn many things. Our minds are inculcated by our teachers in the fields of science, literature, language, and the arts. But there is one art which cannot be taught; it must be gathered from the roadside of the pathway of life like a bunch of wild flowers. This is the art of living. This art encompasses the relationship between man and man, man and nature, and between man and God. It is the latter facet of the art of living, a man's relation to his God, that is brought to the student through the baccalaureate service, as a prelude to his graduation.

The members of the class of 1963 stand in reverence

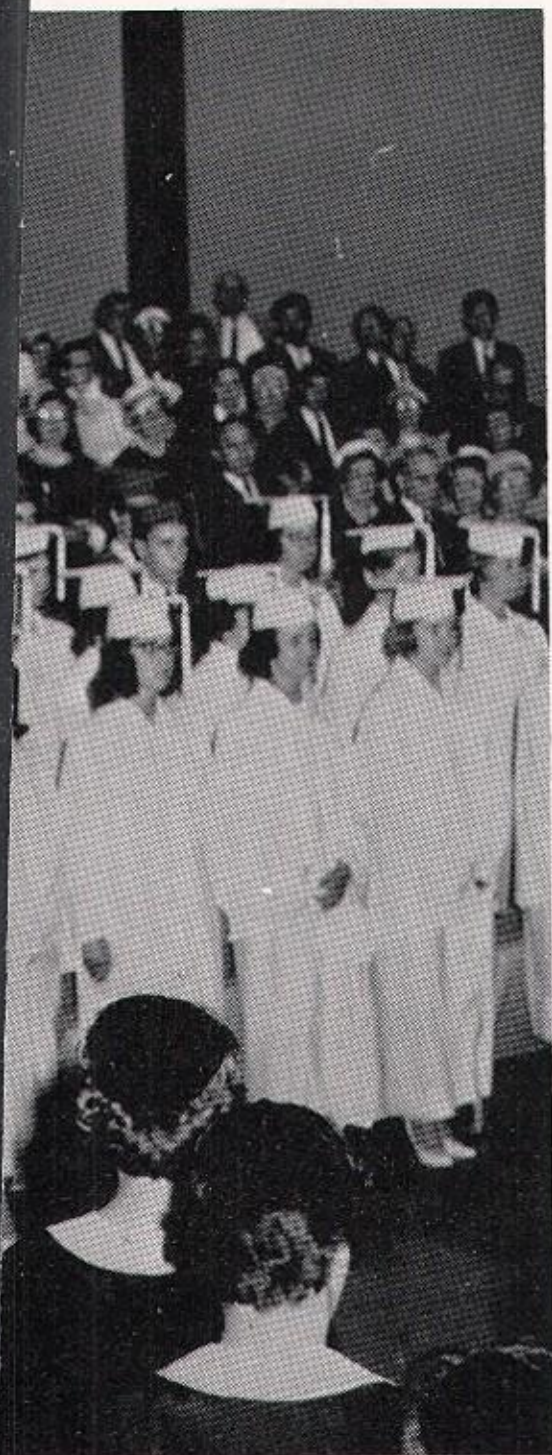

Reverend Clyde Frye, pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church, conducts the service with great dignity.

Graduation is the end of an epoch in a young person's life. Before him lies the next segment of his life, and it is a vast land of mystery to him who stands on its perimeter. To elucidate the proper path to follow a man must look to the godly men and sages of the past, inspired by the Creator, who also stood on the fringe, yet took the proper road through their own lands of mystery in their own life. They believed in God, and through this belief, they came to have faith in themselves.

To inspire us similarly, the Revs. Frederick Sterner, pastor of Trinity United Church of Christ, and Clyde Frye, pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church conducted the Baccalaureate Service on Sunday, June 2, 1963, assisted by Mrs. J. M. Unger, organist. Reverend Sterner delivered a sermon entitled "1988" which drove home with stark realism some of the pitfalls to be encountered if we stray from the straight path. The Class of 1963, attired in red and white gowns, listened attentively to the lessons to be learned, and showed its thanks by inviting the participants in the service to a tea, prepared by the Y-Teens.

THE AUDIENCE AS WELL AS THE SENIORS LISTEN ATTENTIVELY TO ROGER AUMAN AS HE DELIVERS HIS ORATION.

With a dignity perhaps stemming from the awe in which we had looked to the future with Commencement in mind, the class of 1963 assembled on June 4, 1963, at 8:00 P. M. to be graduated from Mount Penn High School. The ceremony befitted the honors that were to be bestowed.

After an invocation delivered by the Reverend D. U. Drunkenmiller, of Faith Lutheran Church, the seniors hear three of their own ranks speak on the subject, "Need We Fear the Future?" Lawrence Newberry, Roger Auman and Edmund Goll articulated many of the hidden uncertainties of contemporary life and showed how they might be overcome.

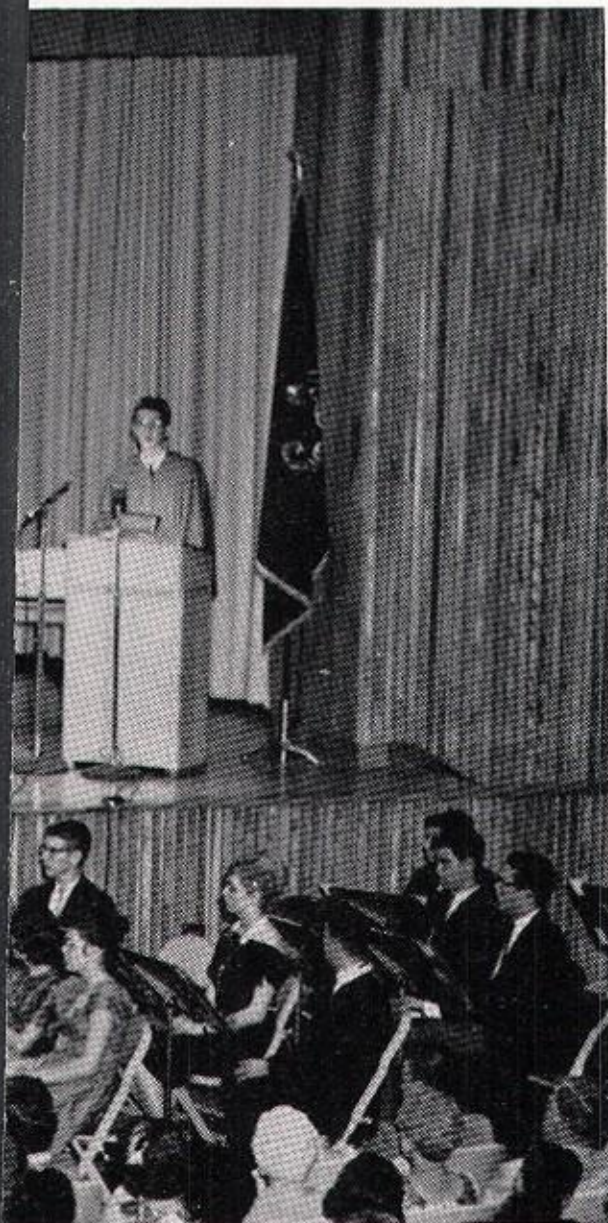

Following their orations, the main address was delivered by Dr. H. Claude Hardy, director of public relations at Hartwick College. He described the role we seniors must play in the development of our society. Then, when the last echoes of the address had died away, Mr. Rothenberger came forward to announce the names of the graduating seniors as Mr. Walter Williams, Vice-President of the Board of Education, presented the diplomas themselves.

After the presentation of individual awards to Roger Auman and Lawrence Newberry, it was all over. We had reached the point of the fruition of endeavors begun twelve years before. Now, the next twelve years stood at the auditorium door to challenge us anew.

We Will Remember . . .

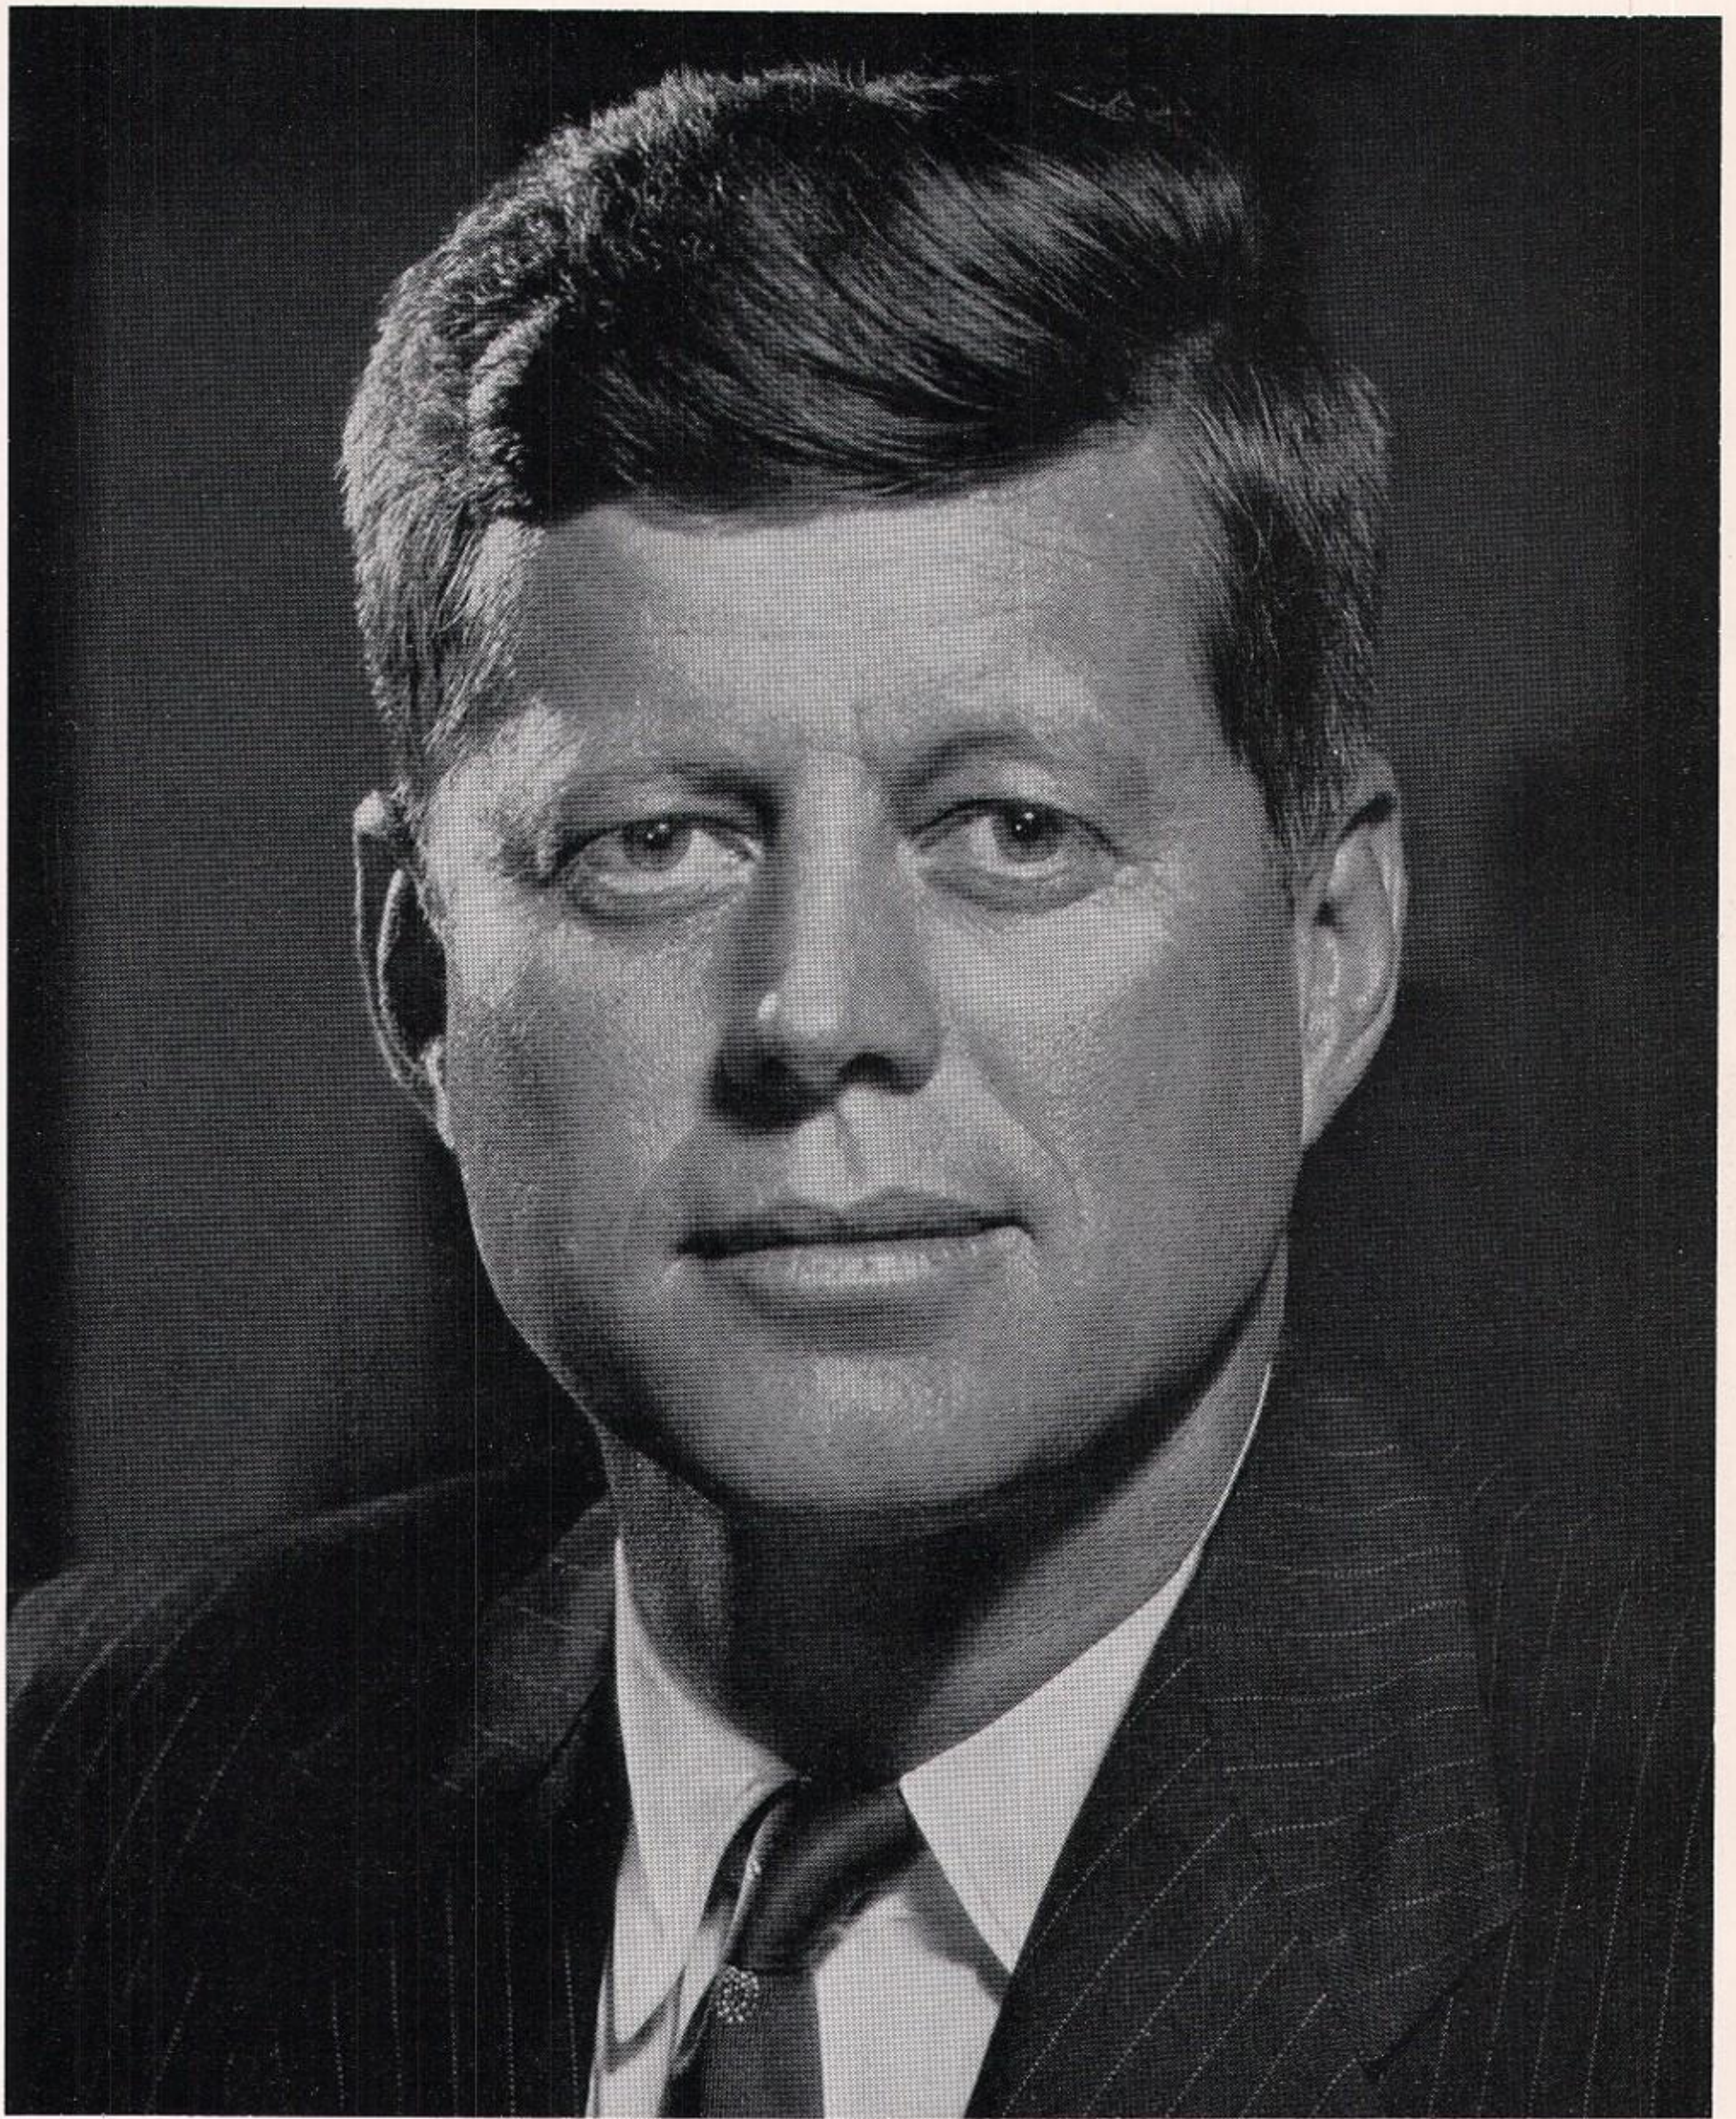

Mt. Penn Alma Mater

(Tune—"Far Above Cayuga's Water")

Proudly waves old Mt. Penn's emblem:
Black and Orange Fair
Floats triumphant in the breezes,
No dishonor there.
Student days have fondest mem'ries:
Comrades here we stand
As our troth to Alma Mater
Pledge we hand in hand.

From thy halls, dear Alma Mater
We at length must part,
But thy mem'ry shall not perish
From a student's heart.
Far away on life's broad highway
All shall fortune try:
Still our loving heart shall cherish
Thoughts of Mount Penn High!

SUPPORT

No man is complete without a sense of charity and contribution. The people who made this book possible have this quality. They have contributed advertisements so that the PENN ALMA could make use of the best facilities in the publishing industry today. The work in this book is a reflection of what they have most generously given. We dedicate this portion of our book to our contributors, and thank them for allowing us to present our "BLUEPRINT FOR SUCCESS."

The editors of the 1964 PENN ALMA wish to take this opportunity to thank all the advertisement contributors for their generosity toward this book. Without the financial help they have given us, this annual would not have been possible. Thank you once again.

READY MONEY...

A Loan Plan for the man who may never need to borrow

When you open a Ready Money Account at Berks Trust it is for future borrowing—for money you may need next week, next year, or maybe never.

Ready Money is an emergency fund of cash you draw on whenever you wish, wherever you are, simply by writing out a Ready Money check.

The cost is only one percent per month on the amount used, and only until it is repaid—from the day you write the check to the day you repay.

Visit one of Berks Trust's twelve offices, or call 376-6811, the Ready Money Department, for full information about the advantages to you of a Ready Money Account.

Our "Blueprint for Success" is now complete. Without the able leadership and devoted guidance of our administrators and teachers, it could not be so. Throughout our years at Mt. Penn we have endeavored to make ourselves worldly wise. We have learned to cooperate with others in work and in play, and have strived to exhibit good sportsmanship in all we have done. Golden opportunities have been opened up to us and by taking advantage of them we can achieve our ultimate goals. We sincerely thank everyone who has contributed to make possible this, our "Blueprint for Success."
